Customer Success Engineer, Amazon Redshift Service

Job Location

United States
Remote work from: USA

Base Salary

USD 40 - USD 50

Employment Type

Full-time, Part-time

Description

In this role, you will support Redshift engineering, product, and operations. This will include working directly with some of our largest and most important customers to identify and resolve issues, assist pre-sales deals to onboard large scale customers, automate repetitive processes, and work closely with business and support teams. You will prioritize operational issues, communicate roadmaps with customers, and become intimate with the architecture of our systems, while also deeply understanding customer use-cases and configurations, and also help prioritizing features. You will have enthusiasm for digging deep and a flare for sharp technical communication, prioritization and organization.
